A YEAR BROUGHT INTO FOCUS

Linen day
the Record
the game on Friday
a pair of Broadcasters —

these are the marks that measure out the line we call a week.

In multiples of six, interrupted infrequently by vacations, the year hurries from hot, hectic registration day to hot, hectic graduation day without a pause for one deep breath. Somewhere between the two, campus fills up with colored leaves and alumni, then snow, and just when winter seems eternal, spring comes with sun and new leaves and frustrations. Who can write a term paper in May? And comps—four years of absorbing terminology and concepts doesn't make their approach any less dreaded.

A year at Wheaton College. Not in miniature, or magnified, or re-proportioned to create a more pleasant memory. Just a gathering of the many angles that form the polygon of our year. Just a year brought into focus.

Even for seniors—hot, hectic registration lines.

The old Infirmary battled its last with the flu epidemic; then, the new reign of the Student Health Center.

Plenty of warm and pleasant reasons for avoiding the library.

The beginning was the same. "The following classes are now closed." A doughnut, a handful of class cards, and a big bill. Explain to a disgruntled grad assistant why you want to substitute a two-hour course for the less-interesting but required three-hour course.

Sign up for a Tower picture and registration is over. Not until the second week do assignments begin to go unread and meal tickets get punched only for lunch and dinner.

The first event to brand the year and make it this year was the Asian flu epidemic. Chapel met outside, standing, and a new Prexyism was born: "The Health Center has just informed us..." Both places for social gatherings, the library and the Stupe, were closed. Sleep was the sole extra-curricular activity and one phrase became a password: "No, I think it's just a cold." The old Infirmary refused to fade away without one last bid for glory. Evading any clear-cut time confinements, the big "A" lagged into October, the object of a thousand jokes and the anticipated panic of Homecoming weekend.

McCully field celebrated its first birthday with a torch-light ceremony and a pep rally, and hoagies made an attempt to replace the traditional pizza. The next day more alumni arrived, smiling hellos and buying mums and programs. The "Spirit Aflame" theme dominated dorm and class decorations. The juniors were proud of their effectively simple display and continued their winning habits by forging into first place.

Who ever heard of a Homecoming without a football game? Not even Wheaton, although Illinois Wesleyan's team succumbed to the grinning Chinese bug. Kentucky State obliged the fans with an enthusiastic, if not rugged, battle.

Freshmen thought initiation was infantile.

Between cokes, a study break.

A pep rally, a hoagie, and 47 railroad ties.

The gap between Homecoming and Parent's Day was a small one. Another special week-end, the dedication of the new Health Center, another game, and then a return to routine. Pop quizzes, pizza, the Artist Series, a special problem, a rewarding bull session . . . the strange and normal combination of crises and apathy.

An early November snow at dusk and sentimental music from someone's hi-fi drifted down to a group of eager snow-ballers between McManis and the dining hall. Freshmen from Texas and California made their reservations for the trip home at Christmas. Discussions about what kind of sandwiches to make for the trip home on the Trailblazer. Upperclassmen smiled knowingly on the way to the reserve room and Thiessen. Before vacation there were reports and term papers and exams—so we wouldn't have to worry about them over Christmas.

But the holidays came, for some too soon, for others not soon enough. When they were over, campus wore white for the return. The Dixie Club grumbled and New Englanders beamed. Before it could be shoveled away, more snow. And still more snow. Clotting on the trees and bushes,

West Sub girls desert their hemometers for hammers.

These alumni eat more popcorn!

Roses for Friend Wife.

Chapel met outside, standing, and a new Prexyism was born. "The Health Center has just informed us. . . ."

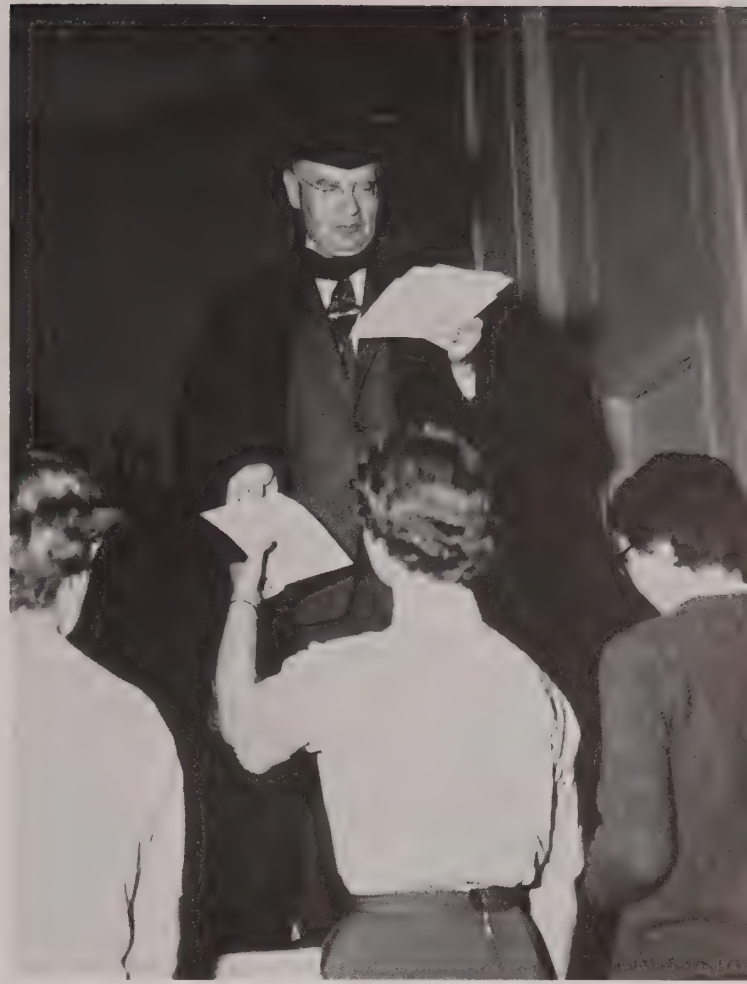

softening every angle; a paradise for photographers and all romantics. But exam time refused to pamper their fancy, and too many long walks at night helped produce a rather grim reality when grades became final. Freshmen discovered that every nook can be utilized for cramming sessions, even a shoe-littered closet. Charts of figures and names blur—just a little—and a late crammer pokes with a stained spoon at the gray thing floating on his coffee. The names clear again and the student bends his head over scrawled notes.

A five day break and then more of the same. The same fervent resolution to boost that grade point average by keeping up with daily assignments. The same distractions, or maybe a new one. A few late minutes, a disintegrating Stupe ticket, and second semester is no longer a novelty. Even fresh snow had become passé. Poet Peter Viereck paid his second visit to Wheaton, relieving late winter tedium and shocking minds and souls out of hibernation.

Most of March was consumed by that avoidable but inevitable pre-vacation bustle of note-borrowing and concentrated reading. A twelve weeks test, another term paper and, in between, innumerable Stupe breaks to keep up the morale if not the grades. Another trip to Evansville and another trophy. On the Tower bulletin board there were, good grief, more Peanuts than assignments. One giddy weekend was provided by Campus Fair, complete with blue ribbons and cotton candy. This was followed by Reverse Day which produced a satisfying number of sore arms from unloading trays and opening doors. Spring came, flaunting an abundance of warm and pleasant reasons for avoiding the library. Out

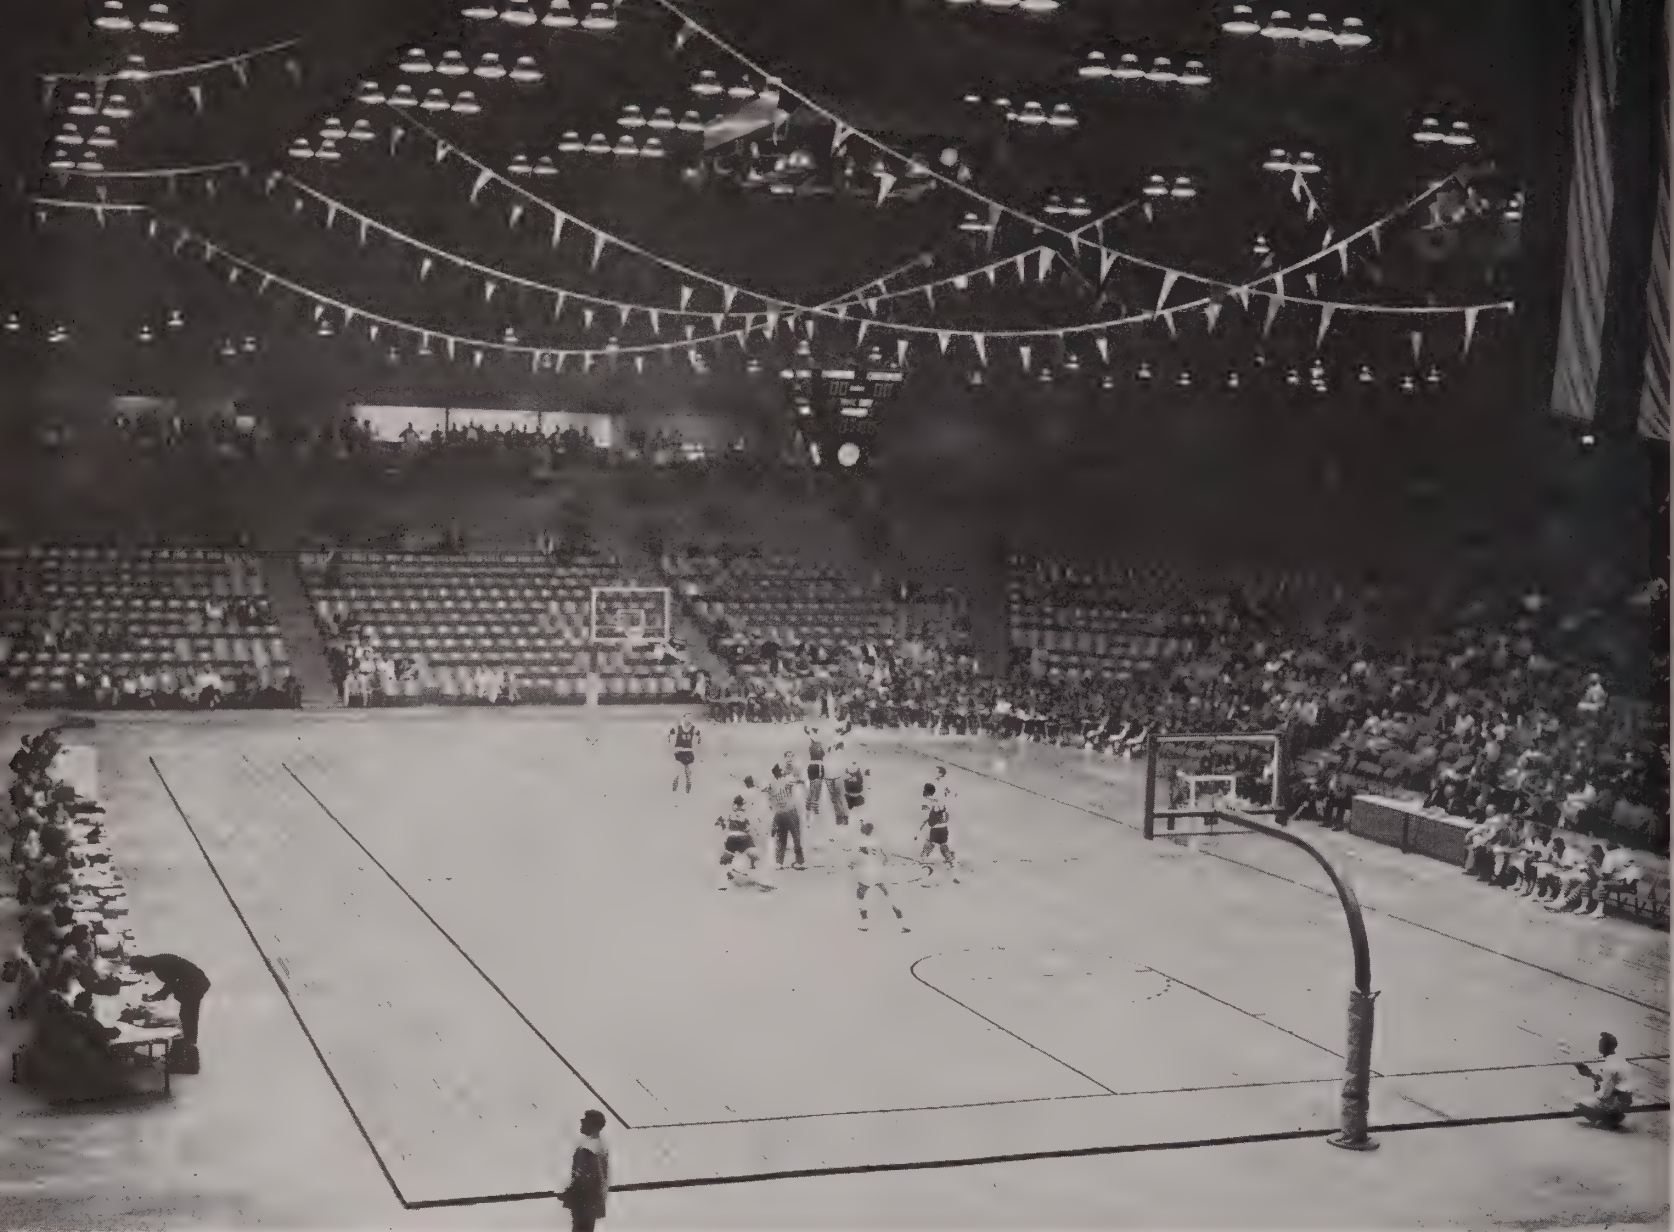

Jan Bryant receives academic honors, helping Juniors gain more laurels.

Bennet Cerf, Jerome Hines—artists in humor and music.

Evansville again. They came, they saw, and—much to Chapman College's dismay—they conquered.

Andy leads a keyed-up team onto the floor after half-time.

For some, the crucial week of finals closed the year. Others stayed and graduation day climaxed a quartet of college years. A million moods and images; sharp and blurred, red and gray; to be remembered always, to be forgotten before September comes a second time.

Mass welcome for "our guys."

A year is a line, unbending, sprouted with short, pointing lines
spaced one day apart
The long lines and the many sprouts—they form the angles. . . .

A year compressed and flattened and shaped again until we have the word and thin-penciled picture lines to stimulate the magic that is remembering.

to be loud in praise is to violate the quietness that

to elaborate the truth is to deny the honesty that to say too often "greatness" is to contradict the humility that is Prexy

but to understate the spiritual is to overlook the godliness that is Prexy.

DR. V. RAYMOND EDMAN

Dean of the Graduate School

Graduate school, with its deeper responsibilities and more serious concern for learning provides the unique need for a leader that combines scholarship, administration and ministry. A need which Dr. Tenney so capably fills. In efficiency and devotion, he rivals his most dedicated student.

In grad chapel his stable, consistent influence is difficult to explain. A well-chosen hymn, a quietly intimate talk with the Savior, these typify the character of the man who heads the Graduate School.

Merrill C. Tenney, Ph.D.

Dean of Women

Dean Smith listens with quiet respect to the tales of tangled pers, explainable late minutes, and academic difficulties. When she can help, she does so. When she can't, she says so and explains the reason sympathetically. The problems differ—pink or green or blue per slips, a five-day meal ticket or a Stupe ticket, an unhappy freshman—but the approach never differs. Always interested, always honestly concerned.

Daily, Mrs. Smith proves that the proper and the practical do not contradict one another; whether at an Evans' Hall dorm banquet or an impromptu chat on the walk to Blanchard, the Dean of Women blends dignity and genuine warmth.

Corinne R. Smith, A.M.

AN INTERVIEW

Dean of the College

To students, the distinguishing line between administration and faculty sometimes seems vague. Adults in education, whether teaching or handling problematic details appear one step removed from the every day Wheaton life. But this is only a student view. Evidence that proves the contrary may be found in the office of Dr. Fadenrecht, Dean of the College. He deals with the difficulties of faculty and administration and acts as negotiator and advisor for both. A position that demands viewing every situation from two sides, with one unified purpose.

Dean of Students

Ready for a cup of coffee or a conference, Dean Volle never separates himself from the Wheaton of the students. In his office, he deals with the details that make his job wearisome. In the Student Center he joins a table of students or professors for a three o'clock time out, and he makes regular appearances at the games. Student complexities may involve an overly enthusiastic snowball fight or a more serious student-parent conference. One thing remains the same in every situation; Dr. Volle is ready to talk it over and help in any way possible.

GIFTS OF A WISE GOD

How many years did the children of Israel spend wandering in the wilderness? What is the key phrase in Ecclesiastes? Which prophet foretold the place of Christ's birth?

Take notes, underline, memorize and repeat for the final. A learning experience is up to the individual. At least for the first year of survey.

But somewhere between the funny-sounding names and places of Bible 103 and the last class period in apologetics the Wheaton student exposes himself to crucial thought. Questions confront him in the zoo lab or lit class or the Stupe lounge. How near have men come to finding the Truth? What is this man's concept of reality? How does it differ from mine? Why? The science of investigating facts and principles, this is philosophy. Not only a class, but an attitude.

Perhaps for the first, startling time his own religious concepts have become important enough for a thorough examination. And he learns it is not heresy to think. To question, to wonder, to seek . . . the gifts of a wise God.

Christian Education educates people in Christianity. Not just adults but children too, beginning with their first visit to Sunday School. This is the purpose of Christian ed—to teach members of a church to work within it; to train them from childhood; to teach them to train others in the same way. Christian ed majors learn how to do this through observation, theory, and practical experience. Charts and graphs, characteristics of children at different age levels, numerous projects and bulging collections of files help them understand people. Practice teaching in released time classes provides valuable experience. Everyone has different needs and Christian ed attempts to discover and meet them. Dramatic play is one means to the end. Attention drawing methods and pupil centered programs—these help too. But the main force is Christ. He is the reason behind Christian ed. It enables people to do His work better.

Education majors are taught to teach. Dr. Garrett introduces them to the background of education, to take-home tests and SEA. Then for the next four years they learn the things which will help to make them effective teachers. Listening, taking notes, observing, they store away knowledge that will be useful in some future situation; when Johnny refuses to join group games, or Betty just can't learn to read.

Students in education discover teacher ethics, pupil-centered classes and professional magazines. These become an integral part of their lives and of the shop-talk in which only a teacher can participate.

There is an increasing awe at the importance of this job in human relations, and a greater consciousness of the responsibility involved in guiding learning processes, in molding minds and lives. But education majors are prepared, after the final trial of student teaching, to face a room full of boys and girls, confident of their ability to give of themselves, to teach.

The primary purpose of a homemaker is to make a house into a home. One aim of the home economics department is to produce homemakers. To some this may seem an easy, unimportant job. But home ec majors have a different conception. They consider themselves scientists. Their laboratory is the kitchen, the sewing room, the garden. The Basic Seven Foods—lean meat, green and yellow vegetables, dairy products—woolens, silks, cottons: these are the raw materials used in home ec experiments. Skilled hands transform them into nutritious meals and attractive clothes.

Regardless of the inevitable reactions, ("When I was a girl it didn't take four years of college to learn how to manage a home") home economics is a practical major for practical people. Theories are tested, proved through experience. Does a budget really work? Test it for a term in Hiatt House. They learn by doing.

At the end of four years, home ec majors know they can run a home, teach a class, plan hospital meals. Efficiently, scientifically, and with a minimum of effort, a maximum of success.

NOT JUST EXERCISE

From the body mech girls cramming an entire semester of sensible dieting into one week of continuous hunger pangs just before the final, to the majors drawing diagrams on the seminar room blackboards before a coaching test; everyone at Wheaton comes in contact with the physical education department. The experience can be pleasant even for those who insist, "But I'm just not co-ordinated."

Contrary to registration line rumor, the teachers do not expect a perfected hook shot in first semester team sports and the hockey is of the variety played on Old Lawson, not ice.

The majors are enthusiastic, closely knit, and persevering. They learn the names and functions of those muscles as well as how to control them. Games have rules and these must be memorized too.

But when the time comes for the Spring Festival or an Indian summer excursion to Honey Rock, the hours of study pay big dividends in fun and practical experience. In the development of the whole self, physical education plays a creative role.

While the girls in Evans Hall pull the covers over their ears, (there's something about a soldier that's unbearable at 7:30 a.m.) uniformed cadets form marching units on the street below, chanting the Wheaton versions of "sound-off" with West Point gusto.

"Yessir." "Nosir." Marching. Uniforms. Manuals. Marching. Demerits. Tactics. Marching. They shine their shoes and gripe and learn the parts of the rifle. The army on campus is still very much the army. For upperclassmen, it's the army off campus for six weeks in the summer when being a soldier becomes a more than full-time job.

The study of man is not confined to anthropology classes. Ask any literature major. Maybe if dogs wrote books it would be different, but people write mostly about people; relating fact and experience to what is basically most important, the self.

So lit majors spend four years finding out what people have said about each other and consequently, themselves. This requires much reading. But reading is only a beginning. What is read must be connected and evaluated; sometimes when a question is opened another one appears inside and when that is opened, another and another.

When he is a senior, the literature student discovers that the abstract thought, however stimulating, is not enough. Suddenly he becomes a scientist, inserting data between the innumerable fine lines so carefully plotted on yards of shelf paper, an integration chart. And like all charts it must be precise.

Talking is something people do without stopping to think how they do it. Like eating and walking, a great deal of importance is placed on the initial step but once the process is underway it is promptly ignored.

The individual with the natural ability to effectively and persuasively convey his thoughts has always had a distinct advantage over his fellow-man. While not everyone has a driving ambition to head some political party or be a television adman, the normal everyday contacts in the business and professional worlds do demand the clear communication of ideas.

Speech courses can serve to supplement the lack of natural ability or expand and develop the existing tendencies. In the introductory courses, students become conscious of the mechanics of good delivery. They learn that careful organization is the first step toward meaningful speech. The majors conduct a more technical and detailed study of the entire speaking, thought transmitting process. This is climaxed with a final speech recital. A re-creation of people and events.

Twice a week foreign language students build their vocabulary and their leg muscles when they climb four flights of stairs to the language lab. Attempts at imitation usually improve with each exhausting visit.

In the classroom, familiar hymns and scripture become vital again when they are restated in other unfamiliar words. There are verbs to conjugate, cases to memorize, idioms to learn and the evening before a quiz invitations as well as nouns must be declined. Sometimes grammar seems enormously out of proportion in its role as a tool in translation. But it is said to be a very important tool.

Disciplined hours of concentration pay off in unexpected ways; understanding the foreign phrases of a missionary speaker in chapel; honest amusement at the cartoons in magazines not published in New York; more than polite concern for the traditions of other cultures. If learning to transmit thoughts in the words of another land is an experience in sound, it is also an experience in human understanding.

Geology students are lucky. They have an elevator to take them up to their third floor compartments in Breyer and every semester they take bigger and better field trips.

But there are two distinct disadvantages. People are always making stupid remarks about geology majors having rocks in their heads, and the Wisconsin Dells can be pretty cold and muddy in March. Somebody misses the bus and somebody else loses a raincoat and everybody learns what to answer when the instructor asks, "Layered or striated?" To eliminate any rumor of a snap course, the geology department administers detailed and difficult final examinations.

Chemistry, a world of experimentation. Not a process of trial and error, but a calculated procedure meticulously conducted by students in black misfitting lab aprons. The liquids that bubble and fume in test tubes over Bunsen burners give off strange odors, but the chem majors pretend to be oblivious. Their intense study is not without reward. Each year, a few superior chemistry students are granted scholarships by leading chemical companies.

Sometimes business majors wish that the two absolutes, death and taxes, would come in just that order. But an entire semester of preparing income tax forms provides excellent evidence to the fact that they don't. The campus business men attend the forum meetings, arrange job interviews and are capable of comprehending most of what they read in the Wall Street Journal. The girls in the department struggle over shorthand symbols, write and rewrite letters, and supply the demand for term paper typists. Serving as a department secretary helps many girls gain experience and funds simultaneously.

The techniques taught in secretarial practices provide authentic, workable material that will prove valuable in future positions in the business world. ## HISTORY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

RENDER UNTO CAESAR

Extreme connotations accompany the word, "history." For some, it means nothing but lists of names, dates, battles, treaties, kings and presidents; for others, an exciting biography of man himself. But all history students will unite in a denial of the fallacy that history repeats itself. It must be repeated in very exact and definite terms, come the final.

Studying history is not a meaningless cry over spilled milk. But only through a realization of the past can one even attempt to analyze the present.

In some political science classes, the students never recover from the initial shock of discovering that Democrat and bad are not interchangeable synonyms. With unbelievable tolerance, they read both The Reporter and Time and all the varying shades of gray between. By the end of the semester they're more cautious about applying the labels of liberal and conservative.

Man and his culture. A topic nearly as vast and inexhaustible as the earth itself. What is man? Who can say he comprehends the miracle that God has made?

Because most people prefer not to be hermits, much can be learned by the study of man in his relationships with other men, with other groups of men.

Anthropologists explore the people themselves. The Ainus of Japan, the Incas of Peru and the Iroquois of New York. They consider skin color and beards and height. Each group bearing distinct differences and shocking similarities.

More important to the sociologist, is the way people act and react. Why does one brother become a criminal and the other a minister? How does the super-market-television era affect American home patterns? The family, the community, these are the sociological units of examination.

No man lives unto himself: never is this more obvious than in the study of the interdependence of man in his society.

When Mr. Steele delivers his introductory lecture in art survey, he presents the philosophy of Wheaton's art department.

What is the Christian association with the arts? "The Bible talks about thinking on things that are true, honest, pure, and lovely. That's what we want to do in here." How practical is art theory? "One of the three basic principles of good design is that the product must fulfill its function."

A new lab course for survey students translates the text and lecture notes into personal experience. A look inside an Alcoa house, a visit to the Merchandise Mart where exhibits reflect up-to-the-minute trends in furniture design. But this does not complete the purpose. To develop proficiency in art skills, the majors spend double periods in the west wing of Blanchard, blending colors, practicing technique, and applying basic concepts. Reproducing in oils, grapes and people and bottles. The expression of what is true, honest, pure, and lovely.

Reasons for attending college are as varied as the people who give them, but they tend to group themselves under two headings—those who come to find answers; those who come to find out what the questions are.

Music majors look for the questions in lower chapel. Practice rooms are labs in the scientific dissection of music. Subdominants, tonic and diminished sevenths are more than a part of musical jargon; they are the pieces that must be joined together to shape the questions found in music.

Always more to examine, to find, to create. The bewildering infinity of music, as deep as the imagination. The purity of Bach; the defiance of Stravinsky. So much to know. So little time. Sometimes childhood dreams of greatness fade and it is enough just to be good.

Nurses are dedicated specialists. They are fast-walking, pleasant, smiling girls in white. Nurses are white stockinged, with white-winged caps perched dangerously far back on their heads. Nurses are quiet and clean-looking. Each girl in training notices this about them. They want to be like them. And so they begin the three years preparation. But from a probie's viewpoint, the coveted R.N. seems almost unreachable. The many other sides of nurses' training have begun to unfold.

The vision of the calm, efficient girl all in white has blurred, and is replaced by the smell of antiseptics, the long list of human bones, the first work on the floors. Class work and lab work, night duties and the unavoidable dorm gab sessions. It's a busy day for a student nurse.

Chart facts are converted to real-life knowledge. Lecture notes begin to make practical sense. Giving baths, taking temperatures, rubbing backs—they have their time of novelty, and then fall into the category of routine. But the patients make all of this worthwhile. They are the main attraction of the entire profession. The new mothers, the old folks, the children: their comfort is her concern. She will someday be their nurse. In spite of all these new experiences and the necessary concentration involved, life has settled to a new kind of normalcy. There are the friends, the dates, the elations and disappointments which are never considered unusual.

The things looked forward to are lined up in a row, and one by one looked back upon; the capping ceremony, the first observation of birth, psychiatric work, and assisting in surgery.

As the months of training go by, the halls and wards of the hospital become familiar ground. Work continues; there is much for the girls in crisp gray and white to do.

Results of their assistance are not always immediately evident. So many meals to serve, so many pills to dispense; and yet, it is in seeing the appreciation that comes with even a glass of orange juice that is satisfying. It is a part of dedication.

Learning has been gradual, but practical. The senior year speeds by to the final weeks—and they are soon gone.

You can't judge a man's scholarship by the size of his briefcase. Some persons don't even carry them. But grad students continually impress the undergrad population by a dozen mannerisms that distinguish them as an intellectual class apart.

One example is the notebook of a grad student—not so likely to be filled with doodles and much more likely to contain (outlined and precisely annotated) lecture and study notes. The determined way he sips his coffee in the Stupe, with one eye on the clock is in unique contrast to the casual, more verbose manner of his lesser constituents. Even the freshman, looking through the third floor stacks for appropriate research paper material, is not immune to the impact of the diligent silence that thunders in the grad library.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICE

ESSENCE OF LIFE

With the chaos of registration in the background and the thought of six week tests as yet not too vivid, the fall evangelistic services began.

Mr. Balyo came to campus and spoke in definite, workable terms of Christianity—a life. He warned of the dishonesty of a life that goes by the name Christian and is filled with second rate substitutions. "Everything in the universe ultimately is tied to God. And to lose Him is to lose everything—everything really good." From the scriptures and from his own Christian experiences Dr. Balyo gave his Wheaton audiences a part of "the joy and exhilaration of the fullness of life without limitation."

Another semester, another interlude of calm before assignments piled up, another set of meetings. This time the speaker was Dr. Jack Mitchell of Portland, Oregon. Again, a message of life. "And this is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God. Do you see it?" Not an aid to a better life, but the very essence of life. Knowing God. Knowing Christ. Not just acknowledging, but knowing, intimately acquainted with Christ. Dr. Mitchell supplied valuable instructions for a deepening friendship with the Savior. Taken from St. John and the Epistles, the message provided new insight into the endless implications of Christianity.

MAKING A TRANSITION

The bell brings the lecture to a premature end; notebooks snap shut and those few students who hadn't noticed the time, slip into their coats. "Your assignment for Friday is to review chapters five through ten and be prepared for a quiz." Only a dozen people hear the announcement and a loud but ineffective dispute will precede the quiz on Friday.

Down the stairs and outside—join the others coming from Breyer and the library and the Stupe; reading a letter from home, talking seriously in groups of two and three, carrying a new record from the club. The chimes persist in their call to worship.

Enter the south-east door, check off a number, find a seat. Often the difficulty of making the transition between Blanchard and chapel is due to the seemingly false distinctions between the spiritual and the practical.

"And so our Father, for that heart . . ." The calm, certain voice of Prexy interceding for the Wheaton family. A hymn from the supplement and a speaker. Missionaries and faculty members, evangelists and businessmen. Sometimes the message is told in fresh and meaningful language by someone excited about Christianity.

The red light above the clock flashes on and the speaker makes a hasty summary. A brief prayer; a moment of quiet while the organ says, "Amen." Chapel.

Missionary

Only five hours by plane. Twelve go from Wheaton to study missionary needs.

"and we ask Thy blessing on all the missionaries on the foreign field. Amen." Missionaries are not better than average Christians belonging to a mystical do-good unit; but persons with definite physical, mental and spiritual needs.

Foreign Missions Fellowship is Wheaton's information center for people willing to become vitally involved in the obligation of believers to present Christ to all men. Because the problems are acute, the prayers must be specific. By vocation, country, and name His representatives are remembered.

A student missionary conference with an urgent theme—one Lord, one church, one world—produces a deeper sensitivity to Christian responsibility. A new, practical method of acquainting Wheaton students with actual missionary activity means a conscious recognition of the task. Foreign Missions Fellowship shares the reciprocal rewards of prayer and concern for God's program.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE COUNCIL

The gifts that God has given to man vary with the individual but the purpose remains the same—to effectively serve Him and strengthen the entire body of Christ. Because believers do not live independent of one another but are closely connected in Christ, there is special value in uniting talents and working together as a team.

Christian Service Council provides the detailed organizational effort that is necessary when teams are formed. But getting the right people together is only a part of the work of the council. There is the contact work with the churches, transportation problems, pers, and countless details that make days busy in the small office.

The planning and scheduling is not always obvious or even appreciated by all of the persons served through Christian Service Council, but with efficiency and patience His aim is carried forward.

This one is about Noah and the ark.

The people have dark skin. Their homes are tenement flats. A sidewalk chalked with ugly words is a playground. Everywhere there is crumbling cement and the smell of whiskey. Nowhere is there a window that can be seen through, or grass. This is the south side of Chicago. This is the external. The obvious.

It is possible for the external to motivate Wheaton students who go into Chicago with the South Side Sunday School groups. For a while. But pity is not enough to cause a long period of eating bag lunches, spending Saturday afternoons cutting bright pictures from magazines, and talking of a Savior to the sometimes indifferent.

Love is the reason and Love in the person of Jesus Christ is the answer. For those who go weekly to teach in colored Sunday schools, this is the obvious.

It has been said that no one looks for God more desperately than the man on Skid Row. The fact that he's looking in the wrong place may or may not be intentional.

Whenever there is a willing resignation from society, man's responsibility to his fellow man ceases. There need be no contact. Yet for the man who knows God, this is where his obligation begins. Each Sunday, Wheaton College students ride in yellow B & G busses into the world of Clark and West Madison streets. A world of cheap alcohol and a surplus of nomadic humanity. A world comfortably removed from the Stupe and Alumni Gym and Blanchard. Here there is no organ, no church bulletin, no offertory. But the same life and death matter of the completed effort of Jesus Christ. Sometimes the brain works only in an alcoholic stupor and there is no visible reaction. Rally time gathers enthusiastic Hi-Cer's.

Hi-C clubs are for high school students. All types of students; large, small; quiet, noisy; leaders and followers. Students make up the membership and they are the driving force behind each Hi-C club. They plan the programs, conduct the meetings and arrange the parties.

They have fun together, working and playing. But Hi-C has one purpose, to guide young people into the most important relationship in life. A right relationship with Jesus Christ.

For this reason Hi-C attempts to introduce Christ to the high school crowd; then train, challenge, and encourage those who accept Him to lead a consistent Christian life. This calls for college leaders willing to counsel, not preach. They listen, advise and pray, always relying on God. For their job is proving to skeptical teenagers that the Christian life is good and worthwhile and exciting; that Christianity is life.

Head Coach Harv Chrouser gives the word.

A fast start ground to a derailing stop. Proving her right as five-time CCI champion, Wheaton rebounded a determined and aggressive eleven. Emerging from the Lake Forest shock, the Crusaders grabbed successive victories to renew the pennant momentum. Carroll College added fuel to the fire and "big test" Millikin wasn't even close. The finale, a romp over Wesleyan, brought a share in the Conference title to climax the comeback season.

Blasting CCI competition for a record 267 points, Crusader backs riddled opposing defenses. Little All-American Dick Camp successfully defended his league scoring crown and garnered rushing honors as well. All-Conference twin George MacKenzie paced the team in yards per carry while rough-riding halfbacks Bill Barr and Kirk Hobolth packed explosive scoring punch. Pin point passing of Bruce Whipple and Bob Simpson diversified the grinding attack.

The quick but rugged line, anchored by what Coach Chrouser termed as "the finest guard corps that I ever coached," stabilized the entire pattern. Molding into a nearly impenetrable wall, the Olson men yielded but a slim average of 71 yards rushing in the final four games.

Thirsting for revenge, the Crusaders drank deeply. George MacKenzie with 202 total yards wrecked havoc over a rain-swept DeKalb turf.

Keyed high, the Huskies gained upset momentum as midway in the second period they rolled deep into Wheaton territory. A MacKenzie interception—the tide turned—thirteen plays and 87 yards later Dick Camp blasted through to paydirt.

The second half, Wheaton's pounding line made the difference. A Northern fumble, smothered by end Bob Small and followed immediately by MacKenzie's 62 yard jaunt set up the second tally. George himself scored four plays later.

A touchdown pass, Whipple to Hoppel, and Steve Murray's scoring plunge completed the Crusader attack. With two minutes remaining, "Butch" Hansen spoiled the shutout, skirting left end for the only Northern score.

ELMHURST ..... 0

Spiced only by an occasional odd play, the all too familiar Elmhurst give-away collapsed into its annual farce. An endless stream of blue shirts swept in—around—and over the helpless Blue-jays, as all the Chrousermen saw action.

With the game only two minutes old, Dick Camp plunged for the first counter. Minutes later it was Camp again, this time from the eight. Guard Lee Smeltzer, picking up one of four blocked punts, steamed 60 yards to the Elmhurst six. Foushee rambled the remaining distance.

Freshman quarterback Bruce Whipple, joining the touchdown parade, ripped off two scoring jaunts and pitched 31 yards to Foushee in the Elmhurst end zone. A fourth quarter payoff-carry by Bob Simpson contributed 67 yards toward the final Crusader total of 525.

The bubble burst! Wheaton's undefeated Crusaders tumbled from the elite, felled by the high-flying Foresters.

Dormant offensively for half the game, the Orange and Blue exploded to action. Two rapid-fire scores obliterated a 7-0 Forester advantage. Kirk Hobolth terminated the initial drive, scooting over from eight yards out. Moments later following a George MacKenzie interception and Bob Simpson's 23-yard heave to end Tom Malmberg, the Chrousermen were again knocking loudly on the Forester's goal. Dick Camp slammed three yards for the score.

Trailing 12-7, Lake Forest rolled. Chopping out the yardage they moved to the one, where Larry McLain bucked for the decisive points. John Gosset, shaking three Crusader tacklers, weaved 50 heart-breaking yards for the final insurmountable eight-point margin. A desperate comeback fell short—defeat was reality!

AUGUSTANA ..... 6

The score indicated a rout—statistics proved otherwise. Four intercepted passes and two fumbles plus a steady, oft spectacular offense overwhelmed the visiting Vikings.

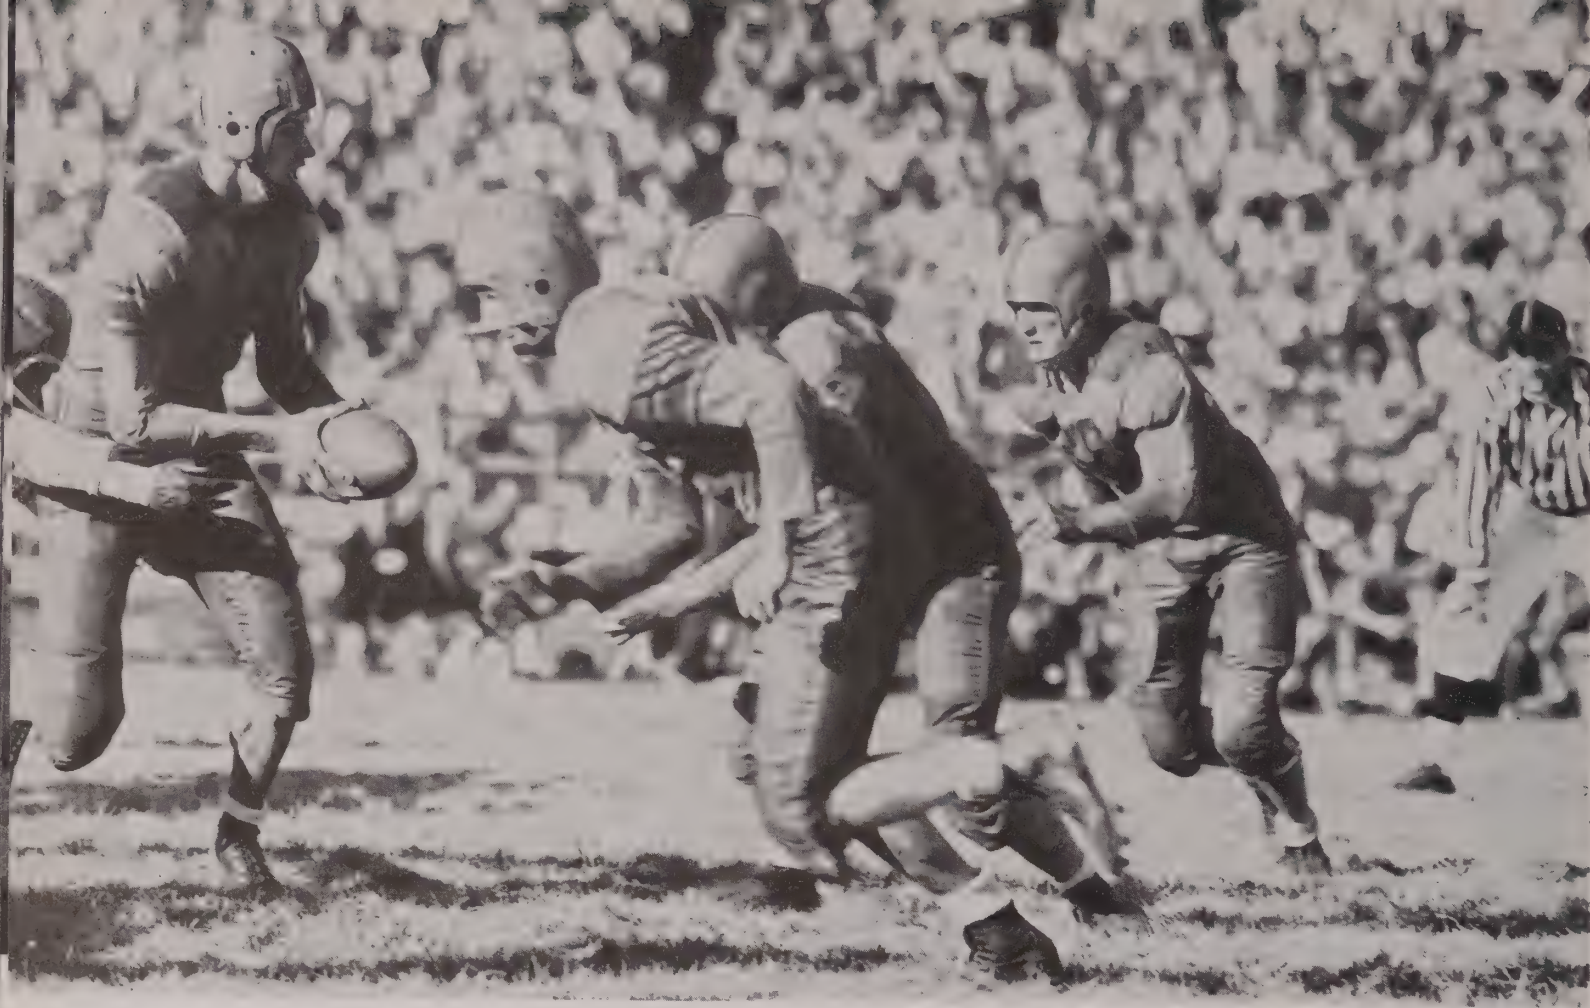

Bill Barr, jarring junior halfback, smashed for two first-half tallies. Following intermission the revived Rock Islanders rolled quickly to the Wheaton one. Bob Simpson broke the rally, swiping a wayward pass and pranced 50 yards to midfield. George MacKenzie, on successive plays, covered the remaining distance.

Finally able to dent the scoring column, the Vikings were rudely awakened. Bruce Whipple, grabbing the issuing kickoff, dashed untouched through parting masses for 81 yards and the score.

Rolling high, Bill McElmurry rips off 17 yards through visiting Vikings.

KENTUCKY STATE .....	13

"Trample the Titans" proclaimed the Homecoming pins. Execution was delayed as Kentucky State, pinch-hitting for flu-stricken Wesleyan, battled the Crusaders.

Dick Camp, offensive bellwether, countered Kentucky payoff passes with two scoring thrusts of his own.

Hardly settled, the capacity crowd erupted as Bill Barr crossed over from the one. Lifus Johnson, fleet-footed end, grabbed a midfield pass and barreled 50 goal-bound yards for quick Thorobred retaliation. Still rolling, the Crusaders continued their barrage, closing the quarter on Camp's 15-yard scoring scamper.

Eight minutes into the second half, Kentucky applied the equalizer. A pass, Kennedy to Johnson, again doing the damage. With the game knotted, a Wheaton drive jelled quickly. Camp knifed two yards for the winning margin.

NORTH CENTRAL . . . . .	6

A cold miserable day. A warm satisfying win. Wheaton remained a threat for CCI honors.

The game promised to be close; for three quarters it was scoreless. Frustrated by the situation, Chrouser acted, plucking Bruce Anderson from the bench to engineer the offense.

Nine plays ripped 53 yards through the retreating Cardinals; the ninth, a four-yard scoring smash by fullback Steve Murray. Dick Camp's placement provided a 7-0 lead.

Fumble-itis, costly snag to a superior offense, gave North Central a comeback chance in Wheaton territory. Utilizing this break, Don Long fired a 35-yard pass to Larry Bruder alone in the end zone. Fully aroused, the Chrousermen acted. Skippy Meier led a crashing charge to smother the tie-deciding conversion. Nearing the victory, the Orange and Blue held tight. Tom Malmberg nailed passer Long for a final 2-point safety.

Neither rain, nor mud, nor Carroll's vengeful Pioneers could contain the pennant-hungry Crusaders. Featuring a crunching ground attack, flavored with strategic passes, Wheaton moved with comparative ease before a chilled but faithful Parents Day crowd. Carroll, in contrast, hit and bounced off a fired-up Crusader line.

Camp and MacKenzie contributed sizeable chunks to an opening 55-yard scoring drive. Bill Barr bulled over from the one.

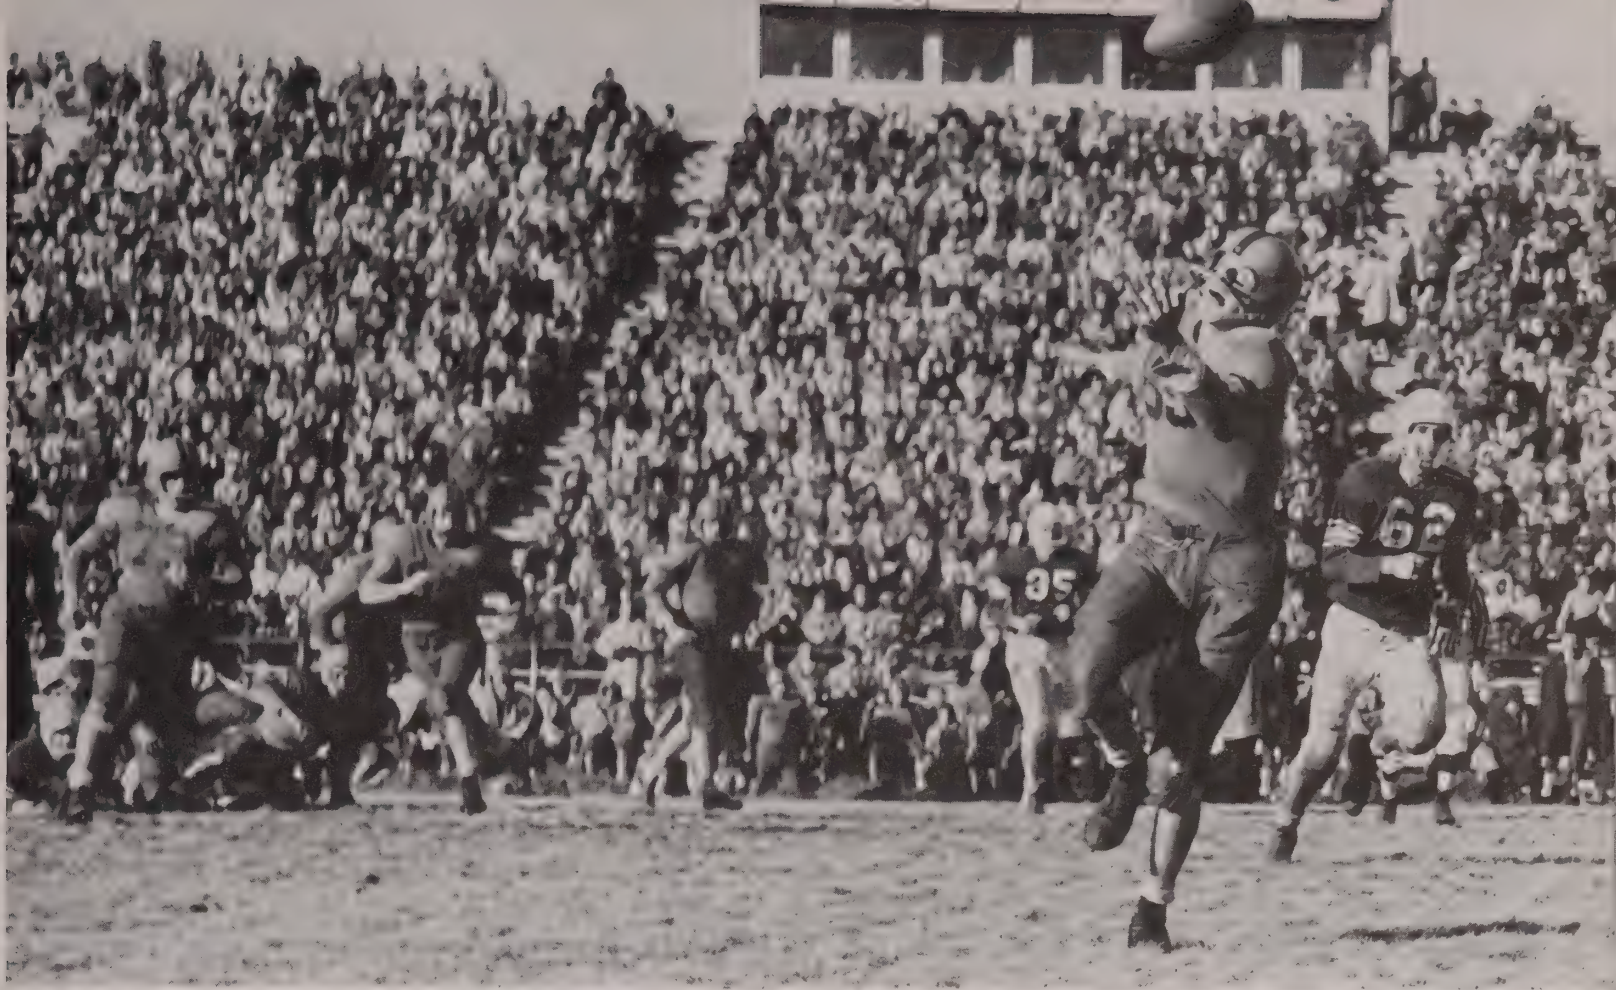

A recovered fumble. Another drive. Bruce Whipple, supplementing rushing gains with completed passes to ends Small and Hoppel, sent Dick Camp 2 yards through left tackle for the second tally.

Ahead by two lengths, the Orange and Blue "breezed." Tom Malmberg intercepted, then gathered in a Simpson jump pass to complete the scoring.

MILLIKIN .....	6

A crushing win over once beaten Millikin, Wheaton hurtled to a Conference showdown. Caught in the backwash of a whirlwind attack the Big Blue faltered then collapsed, smashed by a savage defense.

Dick Camp climaxed the opening drive. George MacKenzie, with an unprecedented 191 total yards in 10 rushing carries, followed two minutes later. Barr scored and Camp, rambling the final 20 yards on successive plays, rounded out half-time damage at 28-0.

Five plays from the locker room, Camp tallied, moving past "Killer Kane" in the CCI scoring chase. Kane replied, plowing the final foot of a 70-yard scoring march. With the fans clamoring for a final score, Dan Branda broke loose to the Millikin 11. Kirk Hobolth swiveled the remaining yards.

ILLINOIS WESLEYAN ..... 7

Exploding for 28 first-quarter points, a power-laden Wheaton eleven rolled past Illinois Wesleyan, last obstacle to a title deadlock with Lake Forest.

Bruce Whipple hit Kirk Hobolth with a scoring pass, then ran an interception back 36 yards for a two-touchdown lead. Bill Hoppel grabbed Simpson's 40-yard heave at the goal line, and Camp went 19 yards to round out the opening spree.

Second-quarter touchdowns were worth 39 yards to Brock, 16 to MacKenzie. Senior guard, Jim Huber, joined the fun, picking off a blocked pass and ambling 30 yards for the score.

Hobolth raced 52 goal-bound yards and Socash scored. Camp hit paydirt to capture the CCI scoring crown. With 1:30 left, senior linesmen Larson, Smeltzer, and Johnson, alternated as ball carriers; Johnson running for a sizeable gain on the season's final play.

The typical unimpressive record, the typical workman-like job. Wilson Junior College provided opening competition. Capitalizing on the running of Dan Branda, the Bombers grabbed a two touchdown lead then checked a second half Wilson rally to win 13-12.

Three weeks of bruising varsity scrimmage followed without a game. Breaking the practice monotony, DeKalb's yearlings invaded McCully Field to battle and outlast the keyed-up Galemens. Following a scoreless first half, Branda broke loose for 35 yards and pay dirt in the perennially hard fought Alumni contest. Retaliation followed as ex-All-Conference "Red" Erickson snared a Barclay scoring pass, then chucked to Orley Herron for the game-deciding extra point.

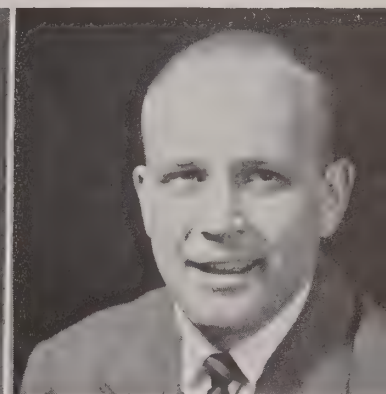

Morton fell, 25-0, before the rebounding Bombers, Habel, Branda, Balc and Klein, racked up touchdowns in the snow-flavored tilt. The season finale, a 6 point loss to powerful Valparaiso, was a different story. Dave Miller, author of three season touchdown passes, threw 40 yards to end Don Beless for the only Bomber score.

A sea of snow greets Coach Bob Baptista.

The Midwest Soccer News called it "the best team ever at Wheaton." Coach Bob Baptista agreed. Only lack of scoring punch and vastly improved competition forced a lack lustre 3-2-4 record.

The mud-spattered opener with Navy Pier gave able indication of things to come. Mike Easterling turned back 18 shots in the goal-less struggle. Scoring in the Illinois game was jammed into eight minutes of the first quarter. The visitors took the lead. Scott Oury booted the equalizer. Bob Adolph, dribbling in, blasted a bullet for the game deciding goal.

Lifting the lid on Conference play, the booters undertook a two-game road trip. First stop, Indiana, produced a heartbreaking deadlock. Bob Vergara, starting the Purdue fracas optimistically, drilled a pass from Stan Barnett into the net. But two games in two days proved too much as the Boilermakers poured on the steam in the second half to drop the Crusaders 4-1.

Earlham invaded Old Lawson and though outplayed, escaped with a tie. Nearly a thousand fans, witnessing the Homecoming contest against the University of Chicago, cheered the first Conference win. Forty-four shots hurtled at the Chicago goalie. Three went in. Cliff McGrath led a

Mike Easterling, efficient as ever in the numbing cold, made several excellent saves to bring the Crusaders home with a scoreless tie and third place behind Purdue and Earlham.

A steady downpour greeted Baptista's travelers at Michigan State. Jim Russell provided a short lived lead, but two fluke goals and the game was lost. Ending the season on a happy note, the soccermen clubbed the Champaign Illini 4-2. Bob Adolph, winding up a brilliant career, found the scoring range three times to pace the accurate attack.

September—and cross country prospects were at an all time low. Faced with a gigantic rebuilding program amidst an awesome schedule, Coach Gil Dodds was considering dropping the sport.

Optimism increased as a dozen harrier aspirants donned sweat clothes for the daily training grind. The opening 27-31 loss to depth-conscious Eastern Illinois ran as expected. Dick Arndt, notching his first of five consecutive dual and tri meet triumphs, salvaged honors with 15:44.

The next week fortunes brightened. A stunned Loyola squad fell before the fast rising harriers. Bradley extended the winning streak, but a triangular meet with state champion contenders, DeKalb and Normal, proved too much for the inexperienced thin clads.

Three weeks of hills and time trials preceded a long awaited trip to Detroit. Co-captains Arndt and Hanchett, together with freshmen Carsen, Compton, and Evans, swept by supposedly strong Wayne University. The decisive 17-44 victory climaxed a highly successful season.

The fans expected a winner. None were disappointed. Fourth in the national collegiate finals and a 22 game winning streak gave ample proof of Wheaton's success.

Mel Peterson's 22.5 scoring average gunned the free wheeling attack. A sticky defense and the nation's leading free throw percentage solidified the precision machine. Running unscathed through their third straight Conference season, the Crusaders placed Andersen, Gerig, Peterson, and Whitehead on the CCI first team.

then unleashed a whirlwind of 9 straight points to win going away.

After a 94-56 thumping of Illinois Wesleyan, Wheaton entertained Elmhurst in their first home appearance. Completely stymied by a full court press the bewildered Jays crumbled under a 50 point deficit. Scrappy Millikin threw a first half scare, then fell for a record breaking 25th straight victory. Touring Calvin extended the streak. But Gustavus Adolphus, down by eight at intermission, struck back to snap the string.

With all five starters hitting for at least 15 points the cagers bounced back against Beloit. Three nights later the Crusaders returned to the Wheaton high school gym to tackle a rugged Akron squad. Four points down and with only 2 minutes left, Wheaton battled even at 61 all. Bob Whitehead coolly meshed four fouls in the last 30 seconds to slam the door on the frustrated Zips.

Smashing Lake Forest and Millikin, the Orange 'n Blue jumped to number one position in the United Press Small College Poll—the beginning of a four week reign. Ever pressing North Central hung near until late in the first half. Then Pete blitzed 14 points in a four minute span. Scorching the nets at a 62.9 shooting percentage, Pfund's men swamped Carroll with a season high of 114 points. Bob Whitehead spearheaded the basket stuffing derby, connecting on a phenomenal 14 of 16 field goal attempts.

Northern Illinois, first stop of a mid-semester road trip, almost proved disastrous. Cold from the floor, Wheaton trailed by three at the final three minute mark. Bob Whitehead and Roy Roe poured in a brace of fouls. Pete banged in a jumper, then swished two more from the charity line. DeKalb's four point answer fell one bucket short. Home again after knocking off Wayne and Taylor, the Crusaders edged unexpected threat Augie, outshot Elmhurst, then laid off for their Chicago stadium visit.

Striding successfully into basketball's big time, the determined cagers trampled a powerful Bowling Green quintet 90-73. Bill Gerig's sharpshooting propelled the attack. Dobbert and Peterson cleaned the boards. Five thousand Wheaton fans roared approval as the Crusaders rocketed to a halftime 47-34 bulge. Torrid shooting and all around hustle increased the victory margin.

Back in their own orbit, the cagers unlimbered a 50 per cent shooting average to drop Carroll, then thumped an ambitious Lewis squad. Overwhelming Augie, with a decisive opening scoring blast, Wheaton clinched the CCI crown. Reversing the order of attack, the bucket ballers buried Lake Forest in a savage second half scoring spree. Illinois Wesleyan fell victim to Mel Peterson Night. The jump-shooting sophomore zipped in 44 points and picked off 27 rebounds to lead the 97-64 win. Scuttling Beloit was no easy task. The Bucanneers with a "beat the champions" attitude succumbed reluctantly to the lethal fire power of Pete and Whitey. Running out the string against North Central, Wheaton stalked off with their 44th successive league win.

BOMBER BASKETBALL

Former Crusader ace Dick Gross made his entry into the coaching ranks a highly-successful step. "Hooker" guided the "B" team to a 14-6 record; the Bombers' eighth consecutive winning season. After a slow start the young Crusaders caught fire and blazed to eleven victories in their final thirteen contests. They averaged 72 points a game while holding their opponents to 63.

Most valuable Dick Cole garnered scoring honors with a 16-point per game average. Continued improvement earned him a season-ending trip to Evansville. Rugged Bruce Whipple averaged fourteen points before moving to the varsity midway through the campaign. Sharing the rebounding chores and contributing consistently in the scoring department were Wally Olsson and Larry Entwistle, who developed rapidly under the watchful eye of Gross and assistant Dick Kamm.

THEY KNEW WE WERE THERE

March arrived and with it Evansville time. The fans were ready, the team was ready. But first the Great Lakes Regional at Aurora had to be cleared.

Playing at their own controlled pace, St. Norbert's took a good whack at the Wheaton five. Staggered, the Crusaders regained control, then hung on for a one bucket win.

Big and tough Hope College posed a second threat. Withering fire and a full court press powered the Crusaders to a 61-45 half time spread. At the onset of the second half the Dutchmen got hot. Paul Benes, 6' 10" center, funneled in the shots as the margin shrank to a five point gap. With four dangerous minutes remaining, Peterson took charge. Four successive jump shots and a pair of fouls anchored down an Evansville slot.

Returning to the scene of their greatest triumph, Wheaton shot down Chapman 81-64 in the opening round of the NCAA college finals. Basket swapping set the early pattern until a sudden flurry pushed the Californians to a 32-24 lead.

Closing the half strongly behind Dobbert and Andersen, the Crusaders overhauled their sprinting foe. A second-half surge of power slammed the Panthers against the ropes. Bill Gerig, high man with 20 points, drilled in his last six attempts to personally administer the Kayo jolt.

South Dakota and the semi-finals loomed into view. While the Coyotes were grabbing a 34 to 26 halftime edge, Bill Gerig, hampered by a leg injury, limped to the bench. Not through yet, the Crusaders moved into pay-off stride. Peterson batted in a rebound, then tipped for the lead. Unable to increase its advantage, Wheaton's drive fell off. Dakota pumped in three straight baskets —then waited it out.

Evansville and Wheaton squared off. The game was only consolation but the players didn't know it. Forty minutes of spirited basketball climaxed in a photo finish. The Purple Aces slipping ahead, stalled off a last ditch threat.

All tournament honors added to the fourth place finish. Mel Peterson received a first team berth. Bob Whitehead was named to the second squad.

Hampered speedster Bill Gerig tossed in 20 points to knock Chapman out of competition.

The season's most exciting meet came with Carroll in the midst of first semester exams. The grapplers were behind 11-3 when the tide turned with Nuss's second period fall. their double dual meet with Augustana and Western. Determined to make victory more decisive in the return match with Carroll, the Crusaders ad-

Smashing Marquette, Gene Taylor picks up a second period reversal.

The Wheaton Invitational approached and with it more trouble. Sidelined with a shoulder injury, mainstay Hurlburt scratched from the meet. Two-time 147 pound champ Hank Nuss grabbed second and 157 pounder Bob Oury took third to cushion the sixth place finish.

Revitalized by the weekend, Wheaton got its second breath and came back strong against Wabash, Lake Forest and Winona State. The stream of energy continued into the CCI meet at Lake Forest. When the smoke cleared, there were five orange 'n blue jackets in the winners' circle.

Jim Ferris, substitute at 123, and Bob Oury combined with returning champs Nuss, Stuber and Hurlburt to pace the ten point victory over runner up Carroll College.

Notre Dame, featuring five consolation winners from the Invitational, came to Alumni gym confident of victory. The South Bend tusslers led 6-3 until Nuss grounded Irish captain Bob Pivonka. Bob Oury extended the lead with a first period fall. Hurlburt wrapped up the meet and the season, edging celebrated Bronko Nagurski 4-3.

All alone: John Lofgren takes half-mile victory at North Central fieldhouse.

Wheaton College tracksters, traditional power of the small college ranks, ran through another successful indoor season. An influx of new talent offset the loss of graduated distance aces and added valuable points to the once unproductive field events.

The opening duel loss to University of Chicago was countered by successive victories over North Central and a strong DeKalb squad. Six first and eight second places buried the Cardinals. Dominating nine of eleven events, Wheaton jolted Northern 60 to 44. Dick Arndt, posting his second consecutive double win, copped the mile and two-mile events. A 47 foot one-inch shot-put toss gained Dick Foushee a first place tie with Illinois' Brown in the Chicago AAU. Al Schrock blazed through the quarter mile in 51.9 but was nipped at the wire by half a step.

Leaving the air-conditioned Griffith board track once again, the thinclads entered the North Central Relays. Eleven meet records went into the books Coach Dodds' men closed the indoor campaign in grand style at the Central AAU meet in Chicago. Entering his initial 1000-yard run, Tom Hanchett fought off a last burst challenge by DeKalb's Kinsler to snap the tape first in a photo finish. Shrock, Foushee, and Co-Captain Fred Bremner swelled the Orange 'n Blue second place point total to 34.

Switching operations to the McCully field track, the thinclads hosted Northern Illinois in the first outdoor meet. Eight Crusader firsts, two by Bremner in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, failed to ignite a victory spark.

Albion, undefeated in dual competition since Wheaton beat them three years ago, came down from Michigan aching for revenge. Schrock, Hanchett and Bremner turned in topnotch performances but the contest was not decided until the next to last event. The mile relay squad of Bremner, Ed Gatke, Gordie Grose and Terry Compton sped to victory and an 11 point lead. Viewing the lack of experienced pitching and a rough twenty-four game schedule, Coach Pfund termed the season "uncertain" then headed his Crusader nine for their annual spring invasion of the South.

Loyola of New Orleans presented the opening challenge. Ron Pott warmed up with a six inning scoreless stint. Bill Horner chipped in with a two-run single. But the Louisianians capitalized on three Wheaton errors to come from behind in the final three innings. The next day, victory hopes again ran aground in the bottom half of the seventh. Loyola put together three runs for their second successive 4-3 win.

Moving into Biloxi, Mississippi, the baseballers tangled with Keesler Air Force Base. A tremendous grand-slam home-run blew the game out of reach and saddled the Orange 'n Blue with a four-run loss. A rain-out and 4-1 setback to Union University at Jackson, Tennessee, brought Pfund's travelers back to Illinois. Showering Greenville pitchers with a 15 hit attack, Wheaton's aroused sluggers presented rookie moundsman Bill Ladd with an easy 8-2 win. Illini football captain Jack Delveaux twirled a two-hit shutout to best Pott's trip-closing four hitter.

Stan Chamberlain races DeKalb throw to first. Wheaton lost close 7-6 game.

Stan Chamberlain and Dennis Stuessi knocked in two runs each for a short-lived lead over Northern Illinois. A disputed balk and pebble-deflected grounder carried the Huskies to a ninth inning win.

Augustana visited Old Lawson for what Coach Pfund considered a "must" double-header. Ron Pott, roughed up for five runs in the rain interrupted first inning, settled down to pitch shut-out ball. Chamberlain unloaded the big blow in the four-run third. His crashing triple over the center fielder's head sent Bill McElmurry and Mel Peterson across the plate. One inning later Don Andersen slammed an outside pitch up the alley in right center for three bases. Peterson chased the winning run home with a single through the box. The second game was called because of darkness with the score knotted at 2-2 in the fourth.

Head-first dive brings Bruce Anderson back to the bag ahead of the Augie pick-off attempt.

Mixing a sharp curve with an effective change-up, sophomore hurler Dick Cole held Lake Forest at bay. Captain Rodger Johnson's second run-producing single nailed the Foresters with a 2-1 defeat.

Two more wins entered the CCI books as Wheaton swept Elmhurst in both halves of a twin bill. The first game, a brilliant two hit, 12 strike-out performance by Pott, stretched on into extra innings. Bruce Anderson stroked a long three bagger, then scored the tie-breaking marker on Dennis Stuessi's solid shot. Two triples by Roger Johnson and one by Dave Chamberlain paced the powerized night-cap attack.

Down 5-2 in the return match with Northern, the Crusaders bounced four quick runs on Dick Cole's bases loaded wallop in the eighth. A subsequent insurance tally wasn't needed as the subdued Huskies went down meekly in their final turn at bat.

A crucial double header with Millikin neared as Wheaton, sporting a 4-0 conference record, took a threatening position with pre-season favorite Wesleyan on top of the loop.

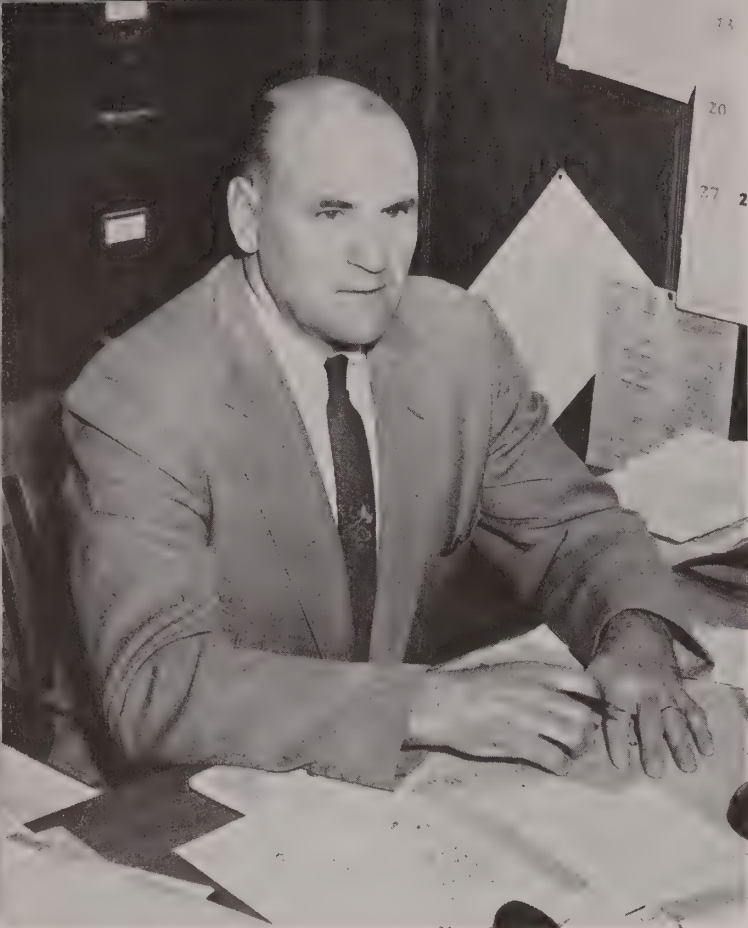

Dave Chamberlain rounds first in the rain-interrupted Augustana win.

Coach Willis Gale took over the reins as the golf team sponsor.

Four early season wins and an impressive showing against Conference powers Lake Forest and Elmhurst established Crusader linksters as a strong CCI threat. Dumping Lewis 14 1/2-3 1/2, Wheaton stepped into the winner's circle in their opening out. Dave Voss, low match man with 79, repeated as the top individual performer in the Elmhurst deadlock.

A blazing 76 turned in by Captain Owen Rice on Lake Forest's home course fell one stroke short of medalist honors as Wheaton lost by a narrow three-point margin. Playing manager Gene Taylor led a decisive win over Illinois Tech with a medalist score of 84.

Carroll, North Central, and Lake Forest met the Crusaders in a pre-CCI tournament show of strength. Ray Adams, George MacKenzie and Hank Harrison played sharp consistent golf over the freezing, wind swept St. Andrews course. Two easy wins and a 12-12 tie with defending champion Lake Forest added assurance of victories to come.

With six returning lettermen, this year's tennis squad has the potential to capture the CCI crown for the second consecutive year.

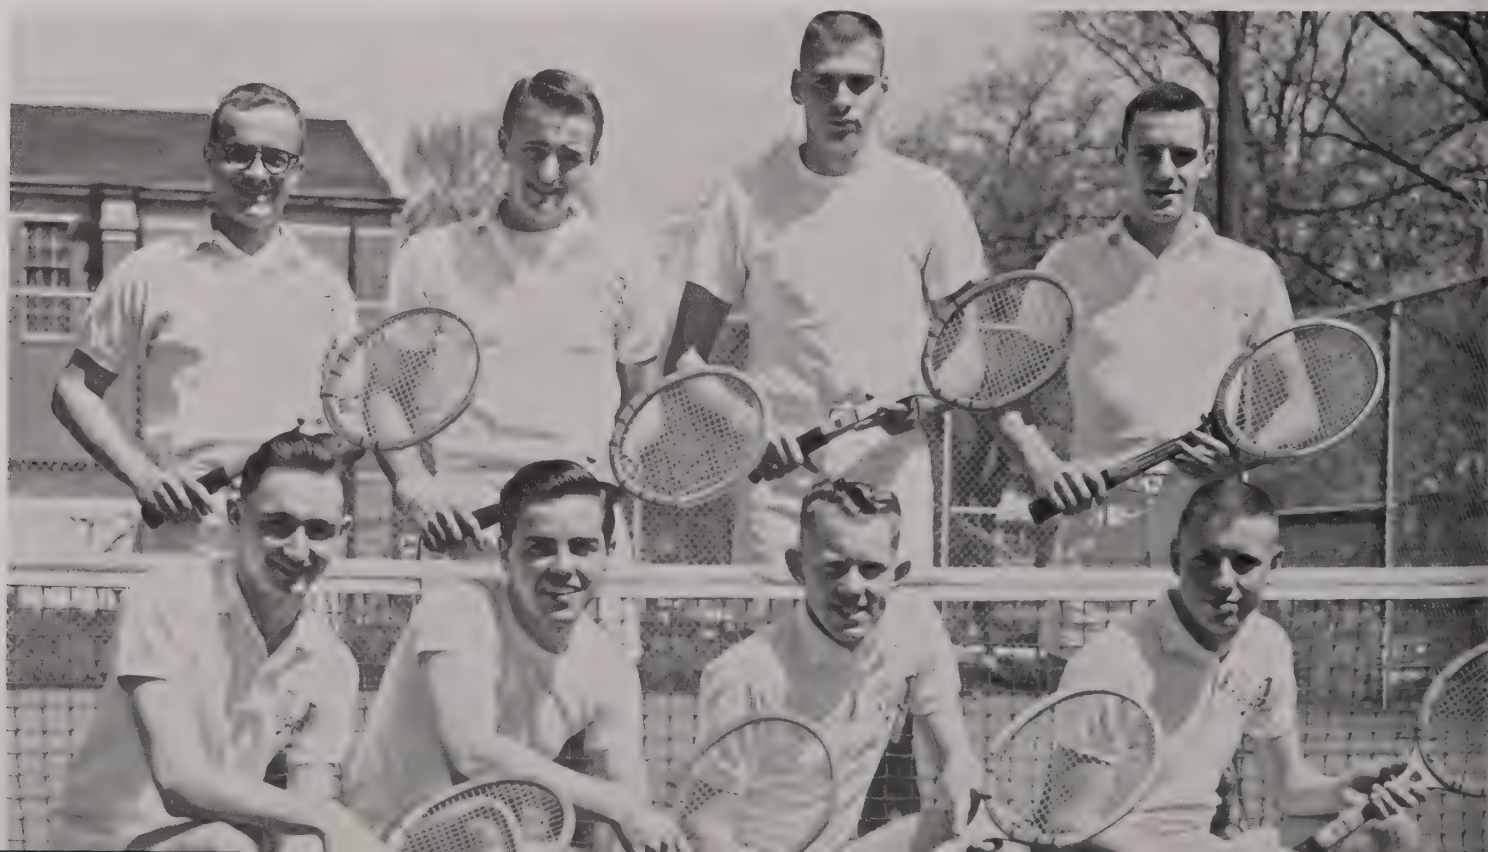

Off to a flying start in the first match of the season, the netmen downed North Central 7-2. Roland Tabell, the only newcomer to break into the first six, filled in for ailing Bill Gerig. The return match, played at the Cardinal fieldhouse, proved to be something of a surprise when John Kay, Captain Bill Kelly, Bill Enright, and Dave Mains were forced to three sets. Losses by Kay, and the doubles teams of Kay-Enright and Mains-Kelly left the match score 6-3, Wheaton. Bradley, the next opponent, fell before the Crusaders for the first time in five years. But retribution came as Wheaton bowed to Illinois Normal, 6-3.

The conference tournament promises to be almost as big a scramble as this year's ladder, but consistency on the part of Wheaton's four singles players should bring the trophy home again.

Despite the lack of publicity and attention, the Wheaton Women's Tennis Team has a band of girls worth noting. And they certainly have a team based on hard work. Under their coach, Miss Bjorklund, they put in some rather steady hours of practice. In their crisp white tennis dresses, the girls set a fast and skillful pace on the courts.

Ideally, the girls condition themselves in the Women's Gym during the winter months — running, jumping rope, or playing Smash. But this is only ideally. The girls will frankly admit that it takes the first signs of spring and the first scheduled match of the season to incite a genuine surge of activity.

Six or eight matches are scheduled each spring with neighboring schools: Lake Forest, Chicago Teachers College, North Central College, and the University of Chicago. Along with this intercollegiate competition the girls also carry on intra-squad matches vying for the top four team positions. Why the top four positions? These are the gateway to the annual invitational tournament at Millikin University in May. Wheaton has won the doubles championship for three consecutive years and the girls are eager to defend their record.

College life must be a balanced pattern of work and play to build a balanced personality. WRA has taken as its purpose to stimulate interest in fun and recreation. The program worked out was stimulating.

There were the rousing games of basketball and volleyball when the girls challenged other schools on Play Days. And during the day there was the fun of getting to know those from other schools. Then there were the bowling parties and hockey games. And the Culture days spent touring Chicago's stores, museums and concert halls.

But the skiing at Rose Lane Lodge will never be forgotten. What better way to escape the drudgery of studies than to spend a weekend flying down the hills of Wisconsin?

It takes two to tangle.

He was in the dining hall and up to second floor two steps at a time. "Wheaton frowns" on cutting line but, after all, the TCAC was apt to need a third string substitute to put against WETN that night.

"Be a tough one," he thought as he crammed the food down. "Good reason to stay out of the reserve room."

TCAC gave one of its outstanding performances that evening—lost by only ten points. Intramural director Harry Agabedis had thirty basketball teams in competition during the winter. Division champs were: Armpit Athletic Club, class A; Grad-Faculty, class B; Salem-Mites, class C; and Job's Boils, class D. The AAC took first place in the playoff tourney.

Autumn's cool afternoons had found football enthusiasts out north of Alumni Gym. Touch champions, the Flying Frisbees, took on Moody Bible Institute in a post-season contest. Also in the fall were golf, tennis, handball and ping-pong matches. After-supper softball helped provide a remedy for spring fever and the post-Evansville lull.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Big Brother and Sister chairmen must be selected, publications editors approved and Blanchard's inkwells must be filled. These are jobs for Student Council—only a few of its varied activities. Wheaton's Student Council represents the whole student body and acts, whenever possible, in its best interests.

Scheduled chapel appearances keep the masses informed, another part of the program. Here any student can offer suggestions, criticize or commend. Opinions thus voiced are considered and discussed by Student Council. If they are valid, action is taken. This year Student Council advised the administration on the adoption of a later Christmas vacation schedule; instigated new car per regulations; devised a follow-up program for Big Sis and Brother. A mock political primary aroused controversy and enthusiasm to enliven spring elections.

Student Council's actions are positive, adequate, necessary. They make an important contribution to life at Wheaton.

Antioch, previously confined to the Wheaton vocabulary during New Testament survey test time, became a prime topic of conversation when November began. Surrealistic posters advertising the mysterious theme, "15th of Never," provoked a more than usual amount of interest in the annual event.

George Diamond's steaks were the perfect training meal for the Crusader of the Year, Dick Camp. No one else seemed to mind the steak and salad menu either.

MC Fred Smith introduced the Buccaneers, and once in the spotlight, the musical group repeated the process with an emphasis on audience participation. A few songs, a few more funny stories and then part two—"Trial by Jury," an operetta with a Wheaton cast. Romantic involvements with just enough of a twist, kept the audience in a gay mood and sent them home wishing the evening would never end.

The best thing that ever happened to February was the Washington Banquet. When snow has made its transition from novelty to nuisance, and the library is the LAST place in the world to go study, the WB breaks the monotony with all the dignity and fun of a most formal banquet.

The Edgewater Beach was luxurious and gracious, a fitting background for the full-skirted formals and black tuxedos. Efficient waitresses served a feast which could easily have graced George and Martha's own table. From Now Until Then, piano program featuring Marilyn Rice and Howard Ralston, created just the proper touch of nostalgia. Befitting the historical significance of the occasion, Dr. Edward Elson, the President's pastor, spoke of history being made now, "Feeling the Pulse in the Middle East." On this celebration of one famous president he gave insights into another, Eisenhower.

Another WB ended; another speaker heard; and another part of Wheaton to be remembered from now until then.

If genuine art wears well, Wheaton audiences were treated to a season of musical experiences that may even be improved by remembering.

Remember the reverent hush when Jerome Hines reminded everyone in Alumni Gymnasium, "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands." Post-concert conversation reached Record proportions; one of the rare occasions when Wheaton people shook off their apathetic attitude concerning the arts.

The entire series was one to be recreated in the imagination again and again. The performance of Isaac Stern was of the unique quality that simultaneously satisfied the musical perfectionist and excited the novice. And for the lover of martial music there was the U.S. Marine Band. The Netherlands String Quartet, the Roger Wagner Chorale and the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra filled out a schedule of beauty and worth.

PUBLICATIONS

Occasionally, a caustic letter-to-the-editor in the Record, or a Kodon short story with a meaning that wasn't so well hidden will give impetus to campus-wide discussions about how and what is being said at Wheaton. But this occurs only occasionally and the deep concern dies out soon after it has begun. It is on Pub Board, if anywhere, that these discussions find a voice before they die. Sometimes they simply argue away into red tape, from which they are never disentangled. But sometimes the voice takes the form of a recommendation to Student Affairs committee, or a memo to Student Council.

Pub Board works consistently to sharpen campus thought and improve the available means of expression. The job isn't an easy one. Approving editors and policies requires convictions coupled with cautious diplomacy. Sometimes the points in question become tedious, but the function of the board gives purpose to every action.

The credibility of stuffing even the better parts of an entire year into one book was never really accepted by the Tower staff. Jim handed people coffee and deadlines and faked monstrous smiles when he asked how's it going, but he never believed it would actually happen. Rosie was even worse. She lured people with orange and black kisses left over from the Halloween party and made millions of lists and cleaned off desks and things with uncalled-for optimism. Gene Taylor rationed out taffy apples left over from Homecoming when he wanted selling help for the next game. Stan and Clyde claimed they were too busy to think of food (there wasn't anything else left over) so they kept the secretaries sending letters. Jeneane learned to be convincing when she promised Jim the impossible, like getting copy in on time and going to classes. Elaine plotted pictures and Lincoln took them. Sometimes more than once.

By the time they were ready to end the hoax, there was a book. Not just a book, but a Tower. A miracle book with images of everything that just happened. In the beginning Jim had said, "When it's finished, it will be a part of you." It was.

"Nothing in this office works;" a most frequent complaint made by Record editors. Usually they are referring to the typewriters or the handles on the desk drawers which are made of string. The furniture disintegrates while the files get fatter and pictures cover every inch of desktop not covered by the working Record staff. Tradition says that with a change of editors there must be a rearrangement of office equipment, but under the matriarchal Petznick reign, the bulletin board remained in its previous position. Purpose being that no one would become confused and everyone would find his assignment.

Wire baskets fill up, empty, fill up again. Freshmen list the chapel slate, sports writers assemble scoring statistics and someone wants to know if that was two black and one cream or one black and two cream. Someone else retrieves a directory that has seriously strained the Kodon-Record alliance. Another week goes on Record. The copy gets written. The names for the "One in a Million" get selected. The pictures get taken. The genuine "Up the Tower, Down the Aisle, Into the Cradle" couples are gleaned from the not very practical jokes. And always, on Thursday, there is a Record.

The most exciting thing about Kodon this year is that there isn't so much of it. Shorter and not quite so wide, it fits better in one hand. A new Lysol look exists about the office and there is even an editor who acts as if she likes being editor. This is Jan Bryant. She changed the ancient adage to read, "A lady is never OBVIOUSLY in a hurry." The staff moves efficiently and practically. Reeves certainly knows how to manage business. Judy spends some of her time reading embryo Kodons and some more of her time pondering cryptic French authors. Shirley designs good looking covers and Jean worries about how much of what to put inside.

Cartoons on the bulletin board are removed and replaced almost before they can be memorized. The little book is pleasantly stimulating but not disturbing. Hysteria existing before deadlines is a modified neo-Kodon version. Controlled chaos. Kodon people are Wheaton's no-nonsense kids, intellectually intense but careful not to embarrass anyone by being overly enthusiastic about anything.

BEYOND CAMPUS RANGE

WETN a weak squeek? Wait until next year. . . . Plans and ideas rush through the studio. An FM commercial station for the community? Keep it a whisper, things are still in the early stages. The year is spent planning programs and projects—always something new.

The studio initiates chapel tapes for foreign stations. Recording 13 half-hour services for a series, the committee edits and copies the tapes for distribution to stations abroad. Campus outreach is limited, but that does not stop production.

WETN is more than a station name, it represents purposeful training. Writers, engineers, salesmen, musicians—each one finds a niche of service and responsibility at the station.

Broadcasting benefits go beyond campus range projects—just ask any staffer. Training today is efficiency tomorrow as all the planning and praying now will mean a better station in the future.

Dan Barrett formulates plans with Anna Jones and Henry Cohen.

This year campus publications added another angle—movie making. Centurion produced three films during its first year of operations, "This is Centurion," a pilot film; "Annie Needs a Gun," a Western comedy for the Senior Sneak; and "The Mad Scientist," a suspense production enlightening the masses about weird happenings in the west end of Blanchard.

"Spirit Aflame," 1957 Homecoming, can be relived again and again; Centurion captured the whole story in sound photography. Public Relations benefits from Centurion too. There's an automatic sound filmstrip, about Wheaton, its traditions, its faith and its future. Pictures are worth a thousand words to bring in alumni funds and new students.

But Centurion is not all exhibition and production. The staff has to learn techniques before it can put out a finished product. Writing, direction, design and make-up, and all-important business methods—these are a necessary part of the business of picture-making. These are the things the Centurion staff learned in a year of existence. Confidence came with experience and a renewed challenge for visual aids at Wheaton.

MUSIC ORGANIZATIONS

Music is heard, but not seen. No one can touch it, but it is felt. It is the harmony of life. Every individual can interpret its meaning. Music is words and sounds that probe into the inner man and make him listen to its message. Commanding or meek, tumultuous or quiet, bright or gray, serious or lighthearted—each finds a place in music.

Music needs two bodies for completeness—one to give and one to receive. Wheaton provides a place for both parts. Campus musical organizations are the beginnings of harmony. Groups rehearse by the hour.

Why do they practice so relentlessly? The organizations enjoy music, but then people who listen enjoy it too. So the groups continue to practice. Concerts and tours come and go, fitting into the year's program. All the rehearsing proves to be worthwhile.

When men and women combine their talents, there is unity. This is the greatest harmony—lives blended with Christ.

"Uncle Bill"—part of the tradition.

PRAYER AND PRACTICE

The bell rings at 7:30 and half-asleep band members shuffle to their places and begin tuning up. A few, almost-late stragglers barely avoid paying the ten cent fine.

When preliminary squeaks and blasts are completed the work begins. Over and over again a passage is repeated, by the whole group, by sections or two and three instruments at a time. The repetition is necessary, tedious at times, but vital for the perfection of the whole.

The band is united, in parties and prayer, as well as practice. It is the individual work and combined effort that brings applause at the end of a concert. And the band is satisfied to know its music has given someone pleasure.

ORCHESTRA

HINTS FROM EXPERTS

The orchestra is a community in black and white which reveals shades and colors in sound. Alone they are musicians, together they are artists. Blending scores is an intense objective for forty-three orchestra members. This takes practice. Tuesday and Thursday afternoons they rehearse, week in and week out. "Strings! You must blend and be one," reminds Conductor Cronk. "Now, again."

Fall brought the String Seminar, with such men as Milton Preves and other members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. From these experts the string section gained a new understanding of technique.

Four concerts made a season this year—each an attempt to communicate the ranges of beauty in music.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

WITH ALL THE LOVE

Musical mechanics! Feeling the words in the heart, singing them with lips, teeth and tongue. Sustained a's and round o's.

Fall months of painstaking memorization, new faces and fun. Winter months of hard work, more fun and a short tour. Spring months of busy preparation, a trip to berained California and fast friendships.

White collars stand out in silken relief against a still sea of blue. A redhead on the front row pokes her finger in the back of the girl next to her. Apprehensiveness in the audience is followed by a flood of relief as girls' voices rise in praise to their Creator. There is oneness, for temporarily music turns each face, each thought, each life to itself.

It's not singing for the people that counts, but singing for Him with all the love a heart can give. This is Women's Glee.

MEN'S GLEE

NOT FORGOTTEN

When Men's Glee rehearses, the nostalgic blend of male voices trailing through the half-open windows of the gym provokes an atmosphere more Ivy than trenchcoats and Oxford cloth shirts. The tradition of men singing together is enhanced at Wheaton by the leadership of Uncle Bill Nordin, who has directed Men's Glee for 27 years.

Rehearsing and performing, the men have ample opportunity to put their spiritual messages of song into practice. This close organizational association produces friendships and sharing experiences that are not easily forgotten. Tour incidents are remembered and retold until the next tour is taken. In the spring, the annual concert completes a busy year for the entire group.

Variety in concerts was provided by the men's glee quartet.

CHAPEL CHOIR

UNITED IN GIVING

The curtains on the chapel platform divide at the center, then slowly ease to the sides and Chapel Choir sings, praising the birth of Christ. The annual Christmas concert presented for students in morning chapel is a combination of Scripture reading and sacred music.

In all choir concerts, whether the song is a throbbing Negro spiritual or an intense, hushed prayer, there is the same confidence of knowing the Person who is the object of this worship in music.

During tours, the unity that results from spending days traveling together in the Greyhound is obvious in the performance of the choir as one body, complete and whole. In the case of Chapel Choir, the giving and receiving are one.

NURSES' CHOIR

FROM TEMPS TO TEMPO

For choir robes they wear crisp-starched uniforms. Just like the ones they wear when they are taking temps or changing beds. The right to wear those uniforms costs them hours of poring over anatomy books, and aching feet from walking endless hospital corridors. But when the last chart is marked, the last pill dispensed, they find they still have a song.

Every Monday evening they practice with Mrs. Kramer. Anyone may come. The hour and a half rehearsals accumulate in preparation for Sunday evening concerts. . . . "Give me your tired, your poor."

Nursing means dedication. Dedication to work and to others. Perhaps they find their song in this dedication. And even in song they are giving.

"But why can't I join Aeliolians?" wails bewildered Bob Bason at Inter-Lit kickoff program.

Square knights at the table.

This year marked the demise of the literary society. One after another the groups disbanded "until some future date when interest might be revived."

Alumni, looking back to their college days, remember when lits were in their heyday and inter-lit rivalry was as important as that between the classes. And flipping back through the record books we can sense some of their enthusiasm. However it is hard to watch a tradition die. Lit supporters struggled to keep their societies alive. And when each member was called upon to cast his vote deciding the fate of his group, he realized, but not without regret, that it was wiser to disband. He remembered the steak fries, the joint lit parties at Lake Ellyn, the orphanage to which they sent their tithe. He thought of the night he had been proposed into lit and how good he had felt stumbling through the lit hymn for the first time.

In some ways it was a relief to have the losing battle over. But sometimes there seemed to be an empty spot on Friday night and he remembered lits.

"My name is Eloise. I'm six. I live at the Plaza."

SENIORS

FINDING THAT NICHE

It happens to every class. The senior year arrives—all too quickly for some, finally for others. Preparation for next year, and the next, and the next, is interrupted with last tastes of "gang activity." The beach party at the Indiana Dunes, and the Halloween carnival were two fun-filled class parties. With a new twist to Christmas socializing, '58'ers played Santa Claus to Sunny Ridge children and had presents for all of them.

After thorough practicing of "Little Innocent Lamb," Bobby and the Tune Tangle chorus had no doubts but what they would win—and they did. These seniors were the first in history not to have a Homecoming decoration entry. This is sadly admitted, but they remind us that they are also the first class ever to keep possession of the Senior Bench for three years, even after displaying it on campus twice during the year.

These things, their All-American Tower, senior panic, the sneak, the class verse, will of course be just memories. They will remember this year as a time of decision making, of finding that niche, that orbit so important to future plans. "In just eleven weeks . . . in six weeks . . . three weeks, we'll have to face the world; what are we going to do about it?" This is what they asked themselves. All seniors do. And then they smiled, took their diplomas, and looked back before going on. It happens to every class.

JUNIORS

THEY HAVE THAT LOOK

Returning to campus for the third September, Juniors suddenly realize that they are no longer classified as underclassmen. And so it was with the class of '59. With frosh-soph activities a thing of the past, and the lists of 300 classes open for attack, they began to develop that maturer "upperclassman look." The proof of their efforts was soon evident. Within several weeks' time, the '59ers added three firsts to their record. With the huge arm and anvil of class Homecoming decorations, "Forging Lives" meant something to each Junior. Then came the Campus Chest award, and the Faculty Academic Achievement trophy, for the fourth consecutive semester. "The cream always rises to the top," grinned Walt.

Thanksgiving also meant Tune Tangle, and with their super-duper version of "Three Blind Mice," the class chorus had fun, if not recognition. "After all," said one disappointed songstress, "what can we expect right after eating a huge turkey dinner?" Parties meant anything from mad frisbee fellowship sponsored by Alfred E., to a hobo party, undoubtedly a casual reaction to all normal intellectual pursuits.

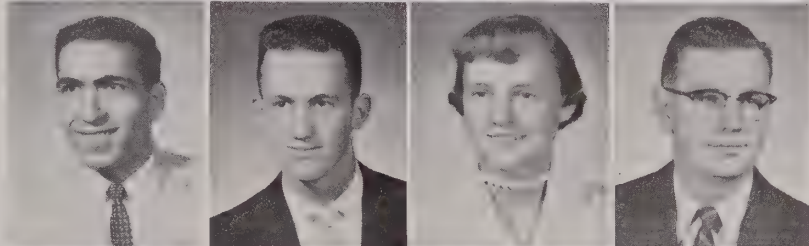

Then came pledge sheets and dime banks for the colossal class gift, the Centennial Chapel clock. Save a dime for '59! March brought a day of Spiritual focus. Considering the class verse, "... in every good work to do His will . . ." showed another plane of '59's Junior year. They had stepped into the place of upperclassmen and found it worthwhile.

SOPHOMORES

ALL BRUNETTE CHORUS

It is expected of Sophomores, after realizing they have slipped from the spotlight of "Who's New," to settle down to some serious matters. This group, however, returned to campus with no intention of giving up their spot in our attention, waving the banner of the Centennial Class!

And attention they got: first it was red overgrown suspenders for the guys, and red crew-neck sweaters for the girls. Not satisfied with much of anything strictly traditional, they further identified themselves with engraved class stationery, special class offices in lower West-end Blanchard, and the Centennial Singers, a sort of spring training for next year's Tune Tangle, who entertained the Century Club in one instance. They revived the old tradition of class "spiritual retreats" for both fall and spring.

In the traditional class competitions, the Sophs played havoc with the new freshman's schedule by waking the entire class up at 4:30 a.m. for initiation, which ended with Kangaroo Court. "Getting to Know You" brought them a second place in the Tune Tangle rivalry.

Always there was something new to remind them they were from the class of '60, but any sophomore will tell you that the thing most remembered are the fun class parties throughout the whole year. "Little Bit of Italy" with the all-brunette chorus, the ventriloquist from the Christmas Party, and spaghetti for Valentine's Day which ended the girls vs. boys scramble to buy up the stationery (gals had to treat). And with the end of the year, more big plans were still in the offing.

FRESHMEN

DINKS AND QUARTERS

Freshmen arrive on campus, excited, eager to begin this new adventure—college. Some shy and quiet; others more bold; they'd learned the ropes from an older brother. It was fun at first, making new friends, discovering CPO, the Stupe and Blanchard—in that order, going to a party with Big Sis. Even taking tests and learning rules had their good points—it was college.

But they discovered another aspect. Registration, with its seemingly endless white cards to be filled out; waiting in line to sign up for a class, then hearing "Sorry this class just closed"; trying desperately to fit another class into an already revised schedule; reading the signs that were all over, "Don't forget to sign your class cards," then forgetting.

Then there were brown and yellow "dinks." Everybody wore them and the class became one body. Jan and Larry were elected to see that things got done. Class spirit meant sleepless nights spent trying to outwit the rival sophomores. It all added up to unity. The biggest undertaking had its origin in providing for a class gift. Senior year looked far away, but when it comes the class will be prepared—a quarter a week adds up.

At the end of the year freshmen were different. No longer shy or unsure or quite so respectful toward the seniors; they had worked and played together; had proved to themselves and to upper-classmen they were no longer "green" frosh. They had become the class of '61, Wheaton College.

From "A" to "Z"

"A" stands for Roger G. Allison, our senior missionary in Israel.

"Z" stands for Morris Zutrau, in charge of our Gospel ministry in San Francisco, California; pastor of the Hebrew Christian assembly.

Between "A" and "Z" there are letters which stand for more than twenty of our missionaries — in India, Israel, Europe and America. All of them preach Him who is the Alpha and Omega of our salvation, the Lord Jesus Christ.

By this ministry the hungry are fed, the destitute comforted, and the poor hear the blessed Gospel preached. All and every available means worthy of our Lord are used in making Him known to His kinsmen the Jews.

We need the prayers of those who are burdened for Israel. We need your loving support for this worldwide fruitbearing Christian witness.

Mr. Christian! "The Master hath need of thee."

A CRISIS IN COMMUNICATION

The greatest need in Africa today is to communicate the Gospel of Jesus Christ to the masses of people. It is imperative that we Christians utilize every modern opportunity to get the Scriptures to them. The lines of communication are still open to us. The PTL methods of communicating with the African people through mass evangelization and personal Scripture distribution is most effective. To expand this ministry during this time of crisis, we need your support.

of David C. Cook
Bible-teaching literature

spiritual advantages

Bible-centered. Cook's devoted Christian writers uphold high standards of Biblical scholarship and evangelical belief. The great Bible doctrines of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit... about redemption—personal salvation through Christ... His resurrection and coming again are simply and carefully taught. Publications inspire loyalty to the pupil's own church and to the whole body of Christians everywhere.

educational advantages

Fully correlated and carefully graded. Highest educational standards are offered. Everything is designed to make publications attractive to the pupil and to make his Christian training alive and meaningful. All teachers' quarterlies, Primary through Adult, feature Cook's exclusive "facing-page teaching plan." Lefthand page gives teacher's lesson development—righthand provides full copy of pupil's lesson.

financial advantages

Moderately priced. As you check the features of Cook lesson materials and take-home papers, compare prices, too. Profits from the sale of literature belong, not to individuals, but to the David C. Cook Foundation—a nonprofit organization furthering projects in Christian education.

All lesson helps available at half price for an introductory quarter—and on a money-back guarantee if you are not fully satisfied.

Love and Marriage

These, we are assured, "go together like a horse and carriage." Things which have been joined together like bread-and-butter, salt-and-pepper, peaches-and-cream, had better not be parted. Their affinity belongs to the nature of things.

And there are two features in a strong financial program which should never be put asunder—Social Security and Life Insurance. By their very nature, they belong to each other. "You can't have one without the other," if you want to take advantage of the opportunities open to ministers.

Wise men from East and West will write for facts to prove this point.

When Friends Get Together

A word with Prexy is valued because his warm-heartedness reveals what is Christian fellowship. And when good friends like this get together, a bit of Prexy's sincere advice can be expected.

"A well-rounded Christian," he says, "is informed in as many areas as possible."

"CHRISTIAN LIFE, the magazine geared to the college student, layman, or Christian worker, keeps you up-to-date on matters of importance to the Church and the home," he adds.

Other well-informed Christian leaders agree that CHRISTIAN LIFE's reports on the work of the Holy Spirit across the nation and around the world today—through its picture-features, church building and equipment, Christian education, Christian film and book columns—provides important reading to the person who wishes to be well informed. Prexy's own spiritual counsel in his "Personal Problems Clinic," they point out, "is especially helpful."

You will enjoy becoming a well-informed Christian. Subscribe now to CHRISTIAN LIFE Magazine. Twelve months $3.00, twenty-four months $5.00.

Yes, Wheaton's best advertisements are her graduates. They are also the best reason we can give for investing in Wheaton Annuities. Not only can the annuitant be assured of a constant, generous income for the remainder of his life, but through Wheaton's Annuity Plan he can know that his gift-investment is perpetuating Wheaton's world-wide spiritual impact.

Bible teacher
said,

"Everywhere I go . . .
I am impressed by the
spiritual impact
Wheaton graduates are making!"

The well-known preacher who made that statement was not advertising for Wheaton — not intentionally. He was simply expressing what he and many others have personally observed about men and women with Wheaton training.

You do meet Wheaton grads wherever you go — from Tulsa, Oklahoma, to Talas, Turkey. And you find them serving in a great many capacities — as homemakers, business men, nurses, doctors, lawyers, teachers, athletic coaches, authors, editors, pastors, missionaries, musicians, evangelists, and a host of others.

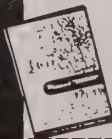

But wherever they are, and however they serve, there is one thing characteristic of true and loyal Wheatonites: their Christian influence is felt — deeply felt.

WOULDN'T YOU like to have a share in Wheaton's global ministry?
